HUNDREDS KILLED IN BERLIN STREET FIGHTING

NAVAL EXPERTS GOING TO EUROPE

Secretary Daniels Will Head Distinguished Party of American Seamen.

BAKER TO MAKE TRIP

War Department Head Intends to Leave About April 1 to Close Up Business Operations of United States Forces.

Washington, March 8.—Secretary Daniels and a party of American naval experts will depart next week to discuss with Allied naval officials the best type of capital warships to be built in the future, based on the lessons gained in the war.

Because of conflicting opinions among American officers, the secretary has been asked to submit a definite recommendation to the next congress in December.

It also was learned Secretary Baker would sail for Europe about April 1 to close up the business operations of the American Expeditionary forces. He will be absent about six weeks, and probably will arrive overseas before Secretary Daniels returns. Thus President Wilson and the heads of both the army and the navy probably will be away from the country at the same time—a situation without precedent.

Several Admirals Going.

The naval secretary will be accompanied by Rear Admiral Taylor, chief of the bureau of construction and repair; Griffin, chief of the bureau of steam engineering; Earle, chief of the bureau of ordnance, and Commander Foote, his personal aide. The party will be joined overseas by Admiral Benson, chief of the bureau of operations, who is attached to the American peace delegation, and Vice Admiral Sims, commanding all American naval forces in European waters.

Mr. Daniels and his party will sail from New York on the Leviathan next Thursday and will go first to Paris to confer with the French admiralty. Later they will visit London and Rome and probably will be away a month or more. No plans have been made for the return trip.

While all deductions to be drawn from war experience will be discussed in detail, the American mission will address itself particularly to the question of future types of capital ships. It has been the judgment of the navy general board, charged with fixing the military characteristics of new ships, that the United States should continue to build dreadnaughts of constantly increasing power, and battle cruisers. This view is held by Rear Admiral Fletcher, chairman of the general board, and former commander of the Atlantic fleet.

YOUTH CONFESSES ROBBERY

Implicates Three Others in Holdup Netting $62,600.

New York, March 8.—Gustave Mignone, a youth of 20, was arrested on a charge of robbery in connection with the theft of $62,600 in securities from Milton Strohm, a Wall Street messenger boy.

The police declared that Mignone had confessed, implicating three other boys.

Strohm was robbed of $49,000 worth of Liberty Bonds and $13,600 in other securities after he had been lured to a deserted stairway in an office building on lower Broadway and knocked unconscious by a blow on the head.

CANADIAN SOLDIERS IN RIOT

About a Score Reported Killed at Camp in Wales.

London, March 8.—From eight to 27 persons are estimated to have been killed and from 26 to 70 wounded in rioting during the past three days at the Kinnel military camp at Rhyl, Wales, according to a Liverpool dispatch received here. Great property damage was caused, the dispatch adds.

According to latest reports from Liverpool the riot was started by about 200 malcontents. They contended that their embarkation had been postponed while other men who had seen less service were sent home.

President Answers Alarm to Abandon Ship, Adjusting Life Belt.

On Board U. S. S. George Washington, March 8.—President Wilson's rest was cut short by the sounding of a general alarm summoning all hands to the boats to abandon ship. The signal for the boat drill came at 9 a. m. and the president arose and escorted Mrs. Wilson to their boat. He adjusted Mrs. Wilson's and his own life belt and stood quietly by until the drill was completed.

Food Concession Will be Made to Germans

BY FRED S. FERGUSON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Paris, March 8.—The supreme war council discussing the problem of supplying food to the enemy countries today was expected to reach an agreement by Monday. It was believed that certain concessions would be made to relieve the situation resulting from the disagreement between the German and allied economic commissions at Spa.

The conferees have already approved plans for feeding the people of dismembered Austria, whereby the blockade will be lifted. This principle will be extended to Germany it was understood through the adoption of a resolution directing the supreme economic council to carry out the provision.

The British decorations totalled 518, including 154 military crosses and 251 military medals. Belgium decorated 571 members of the Expeditionary force and Italy five.

By FRANK J. TAYLOR

GERMAN REBELS RALLY

Berlin Strike Gains Strength After Defeat.

More Volunteer Guards Go Over to Spartacists—Many Wounded in Street Fighting.

Berlin, March 8.—Fighting on the streets has broken out with renewed violence. After the rebels seemed to have been crushed and radical leaders conceded defeat the Spartacists rallied.

The general strike, which had almost flickered out, seemed to be gaining strength today.

Many Republican guards were wounded in the street fighting in various parts of the city. The scenes of disorder, however, were still widely scattered.

Some radical chiefs changed their attitude of pessimism and threatened to develop revolution which would accomplish what the first Spartacus outbreak failed to accomplish.

Government mastery of the situation, so evident a few hours ago, appeared at the time of cabling to be precarious. The fighting continues.

Guards Join Spartacists.

London, March 8.—A German wireless dispatch received here states that in addition to the volunteer marine division and a portion of the Republican militia, parts of the second guards regiment, and the guard fusilier regiment, have gone over to the Spartacists.

Coblenz, March 8.—Disturbances in Berlin and other parts of unoccupied Germany have resulted in such an increase in the number of civilians eager to reach the bridgehead area, where conditions are more normal, that the American forces of occupation have been compelled to take steps to prevent Germans from all parts of the country overrunning the occupied zone along the Rhine.

SEEK AGREEMENT ON TERMS

United States, France and England Try to Iron Out Differences.

Paris, March 8.—Premier Lloyd George, Premier Georges Clemenceau and Colonel E. M. House conferred for an hour before the meeting of the supreme council in an effort to iron out the differences of the three nations over the military, naval and economic questions connected with the preliminary peace terms.

Alexander-Platz has been battered until it resembled a front line village. Kaiserstrasse was strewn with dead and wounded. Unofficial estimates place the dead at 300 and the wounded at 500.

Army and navy experts of the several countries, it is said, have been unable to agree on the terms.

PRINCE ALEXANDER
King Peter of Serbia May Abdicate in His Favor.

King Peter of Serbia may retire in favor of Prince Regent Alexander.

Paris, March 8.—Notice of the interruption of the negotiations at Spa with respect to the surrender of the German merchant fleet was received by the supreme council at its meeting.

London, March 8.—A German wireless message received here states that the German delegates to the Armistice conference at Spa demanded, before the surrender of the German ships be considered, that adequate food supplies, say 2,500,000 tons of food-stuffs, be assured Germany until the new harvest. The Entente would not agree to this.

Paris, March 8.—The "big five" have agreed upon destruction of German submarines as one of the conditions to be incorporated in the final peace treaty. This decision was reached in the course of the council's review of the naval terms to be imposed upon the Germans.

Decision was reserved, however, with regard to the proposal that the Kiel canal be destroyed and the fortifications of Heligoland be reduced.

The fate of the German fleet also remains undecided.

Food Question Considered.

The "big five" also took up the proposition of sending food into Bohemia and German Austria. Means of getting supplies into the districts which most urgently need them were to be discussed. The populations of these territories, it is felt, must be kept from going hungry, if the spread of Bolshevism is to be prevented.

Premier Lloyd George, since his return to Paris, has added his weight to speeding up proceedings not only toward an early signing of the peace treaty, but also toward quickly meeting the food situation in Central Europe.

British reports regarding conditions in Germany and German Austria are similar to the reports reaching the Americans. Conditions in Austria are described as being most critical, the people being on the verge of starvation.

The delegates appreciate that this situation may become so serious that Germany will break up, making the signing of any kind of a peace impossible.

Le Temps has raised an objection to the Allies feeding Germany-Austria, voicing a widespread French sentiment against it. However, it is generally looked on by peace delegates as a necessary step in bringing about world peace and tranquility.

SIX OFFICIALS DEPORTED

Action of General Rinoff Angers People at Vladivostok.

Washington, March 8.—Vladivostok has been thrown into a commotion by the arrest and deportation of six non-Bolshevik municipal officials by General Ivanov Rinoff, commander of the Vladivostok military district under the Omsk, Siberian government.

Official advices reporting the incident said there was strong feeling among the people of the city against the Allies because the seizure of the officials was permitted. Representatives of the Allies notified their respective governments and asked for instructions.

AMOUNT OF CORN ON FARMS

Farmers Retain About 34 Per Cent of the 1918 Crop.

Washington, March 8.—The amount of corn on farms March 1 was 34.2 per cent of the 1918 crop, or 884,476,000 bushels, the Department of Agriculture estimated. This figure is 6.7 lower than the corresponding figure for March 1, 1918.

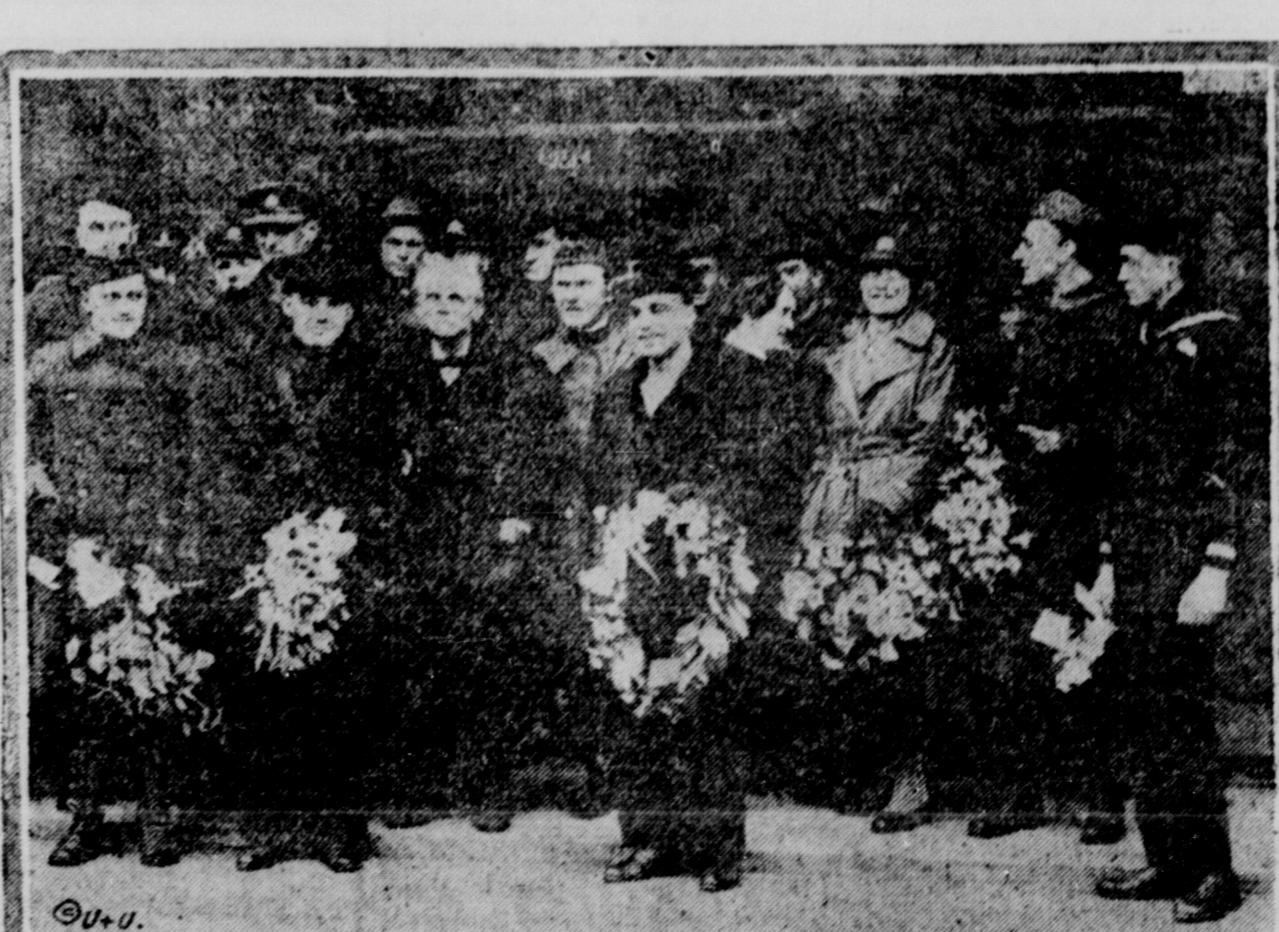

Wheat held on farms March 1 was 129,258,000 bushels, estimated to be 14.1 per cent of the 1918 crop.

BONDS EXEMPT FROM TAXES

Treasury Department Assures Numerous Inquirers.

Washington, March 8.—In answer to numerous inquiries concerning Liberty Bond tax exemption, the treasury announced that a maximum of $110,000 of Liberty Bonds may be held by any tax payer with interest exempt from surtaxes and excess profits and war profits taxes, providing the holdings are distributed in a certain way.

Carried Out Successfully by Chamber of Commerce to be Resumed Early in Spring

THE RETAIL TRADE COMMITTEE

Of Chamber to Cooperate With Farmers, Merchants to Put on Special Bargain Days

The free auctions and market days, conducted with such success under the direction of the Chamber of Commerce last year, are to be resumed in the near future.

The Retail Trade committee of the Chamber has sounded the sentiment of local business men and they are ready to co-operate in this plan to assist the farmers in unloading surplus farm products, harness, stock and odds and ends about the farm. In turn, the merchants will put on special bargains for Market Day, bargains that cannot be duplicated in any other town in this locality nor by the mail-order houses, which offer a bait in "seconds," sell them to customers for cash and reap a big profit in consequence.

Early in April The first free auction and Market Day will be held early in April and the papers will carry large display ads, indicating just where the wise shopper can secure bona fide bargains. The stores where these special bargains are to be had and the proprietors of which are making possible Market Day, will be placarded with an official Market Day card, these merchants will issue free lunch tickets to their customers and the Chamber of Commerce will give a noon time lunch to holders of tickets.

Farmers will do well to plan ahead for this first big bargain day in Brainerd and arrange to bring in stock, farm products, in fact anything they want to turn into ready cash. The services of an auctioneer will be afforded free of charge and every article, from a corn cultivator to a Jersey calf, will be disposed of. Watch the local papers for announcement of the date and plans for the big Market Day and Free Auction in Brainerd for it will be well worth while.

Carroll had two pet rabbits of which he was fond, so when one of them was killed by a neighbor's dog he felt bad indeed. Not long after this the other bunny acted droopy and sick. Some remarkable variations in plant structure and color from exposure to the sun at different hours of the day have been brought to the notice of the Royal Microscopical Society of England by Col. R. The color of the foliage and lobes of the leaves also changed.

SURPRISE NEW MINISTER

Rev. and Mrs. P. G. Fallquist Given a Pleasant Surprise on Friday Evening

On Friday evening about 70 members and friends of the Swedish Bethany church went to the parsonage of the church and pleasantly surprised Rev. and Mrs. Fallquist.

Rev. P. Alfred Peterson, of the Swedish Baptist church, gave a speech extending a hearty welcome to the minister and his wife to join in the Lord's work in this city and expressed his wish that they can cooperate in the advancement of the doctrines of Christianity.

John Soderlund also spoke, saying this was a home coming party, as Rev. Fallquist has had a kindly feeling and a good word for Brainerd since he was pastor here some 15 years ago. He also presented the minister with a large purse from the members and friends.

Rev. Fallquist responded, saying he was glad to be in Brainerd again. Since leaving here he has visited in Sweden and had churches in the eastern, central and western parts of the United States. He was glad to see so many of his former Sunday school children now grown to young womanhood and manhood still attending the church and taking an active interest in the work. He thanked Rev. Peterson for his words of welcome and was assured they would meet with success in mutual cooperation. He extended a hearty welcome to all to attend church and again visit with them.

A pleasant evening was spent in conversation and music. The ladies served refreshments.

WRITING IT RIGHT

By MARGARET ROHE

(Written for the United Press) Which billet doux, I ask you now, shows that she loves you better? One with the goos stuff writ by hand, or a typewritten letter?

New York, March 7—Nowadays, when the modern maid takes her pen in hand, it's usually a typewriter. She has found she can gush and go and protest and promise quite as effectively, twice as legibly and three times as convincingly by the machine. Besides, it does save such a lot of valuable time for her shopping, matineeing, bridging and Red Crossing. Not nearly so many serio-comic lovers' quarrels and complications arise therefrom, either. In the old days, when Percy or Clarence misread all sorts of wild things from the undecipherable pothooks of her chirography, it was frightfully upsetting. Many a crossed love was caused by an uncrossed T, and an undotted I occasioned many a moist one.

Lovers really owe an awful lot to the typewriter. Ofttimes, as like as not, they even owe for it. It is not only as a complete love letter writer, however, that the typewriter is now the thing. For all sorts of personal correspondence the 1919 maid, wife or widow has pressed, or rather pounded, it into service. She uses the smartest stationery in severe grey, cream or white, expensive of texture and large of size, with great square envelopes to match. A legible monogram or initial is embossed in a color which the typewriter ribbon must shade up to. Oh, it is all very chic and efficient, and best of all, easy read, this newest typewritten first class female mail.

Don't for a minute think, though, that we are to be free for ever more from the fine flowing Spencerian or heavy black back-hand script adorned epistles of yore. They still clutter up the 1919 mail bags with all the assorted accompanying paraphernalia of perfumed sealing wax gobs, weird monograms, violet tints and exciting shapes.

True to type, if the 1919 female can't be true to the typewriter she reverts to the other extreme and goes in for the quill pen and sealing wax accessories of the Victorian era complete letter writer. There are no half way measures for her.

Have you a little "encrier" in your home? If you are just back from Paris it's a sure bet you have. Of course all we post graduates of "How to Parlez vous in Five Lessons" know that an "encrier" is simply French for inkstand. But there's nothing simple about the revived vogue of Parisian encriers that all of us are bringing home. No indeed they are as complete and complicated with all the comforts of home as a latest model limousine, with hot and cold running ink, one candle power light, and a place for everything and everything in its place for fascinating correspondence.

The encriers are of china with gilt metal finishings, and the most attractive are copies if not actually antiques. Fitted according to size with one or two inkwells, they are equipped besides with a stick of sealing wax, a small candle and a flaunting quill pen all in a matching tint, a seal whose handle is of the same china as the encriers, a pencil and a depression full of gold dust for drying the quill after use.

The whole effect is so antiquely artistic and charmingly convenient that it tempts to a mad attack of writer's cramp. Especially as most fetching stationery in enchanting colors, smartly monogrammed as the seal is engraved is an accompanying adjunct of the encrier.

It certainly is a far cry from the typewritten form to the encrier form of correspondence, but you may rest assured if you just choose one or the other you are sure to write right.

PLAIN QUESTIONS TO BRAINERD PEOPLE

Every Brainerd Reader Will Admit the Soundness of the Logic

Would Brainerd people recommend Doan's Kidney Pills as they do if the medicine were not reliable?

Would they confirm their statements after years have elapsed if their experiences did not show the remedy to be deserving of it? Statements like the following must carry conviction to the mind of every reader:

Wm. Bourquin, carpenter, 913 7th St., Brainerd, says: "Some time ago I was suffering from kidney and bladder complaint. The kidney secretions were too frequent. I had backache and pains through my sides. The trouble kept me from my work and gave me much annoyance. I used Doan's Kidney Pills and soon secured relief from the trouble. Now the aches and pains are gone." (Statement given October 28, 1913.)

On November 3, 1917, Mr. Bourquin said: "Colds sometimes disorder my kidneys but I can rely on Doan's Kidney Pills to relieve me. I have the same good words for Doan's as when I previously endorsed them."

QUEER COINCIDENT

It is a queer coincidence that the same place where for years beer was brewed in Brainerd is now chosen the site for a new water supply for Brainerd. While it is too late to advocate or advertise the purity of the beer formerly brewed at Boom lake, our taste for water at least vindicate, at this late day, the former claims for that product of malt and hops. However, the site to be chosen is not exactly the old brewery site, as the topography there is not sufficiently convenient.

It is interesting to observe the easy manner in which the Board tends to sweep aside objections to taking water from an underground source. The board has no doubt as to the adequacy of the supply, and will present ample proof to support its contention. We urge everybody to read these articles carefully.

WHY YOU SHOULD VOTE
BONDS

A series of articles prepared by the Water & Light Board to explain why new water works are necessary, what is planned to replace the old works, and the suitableness of that which is advocated.

V

The Source for Water
 We believe that in the whole of the question before you the most queries will be in reference to taking water from gravel beds by wells. You are all familiar with taking water from gravel beds with a pump for use around your home or farm. Let us start with the proper location, then obtain the proper depth, then multiply the number of wells and use larger pipes and then you have a well-system for a city. We will use eight wells and eight-inch pipe, and instead of making only a few strokes on a pump handle, like you do, we will pump for hours, day in and day out.

The Board started several years ago to test for suitable water supply. It drilled on the east and west side of the river. It drilled from Rice Lake on the north to below Boom Lake on the south. Only south of Boom Lake did we find a large gravel bed and excellent water, and enough water. The gravel bed is 80 to 100 feet below the general level of the city and about 30 feet below the river bottom. There is no possible chance for pollution from any source. We are positively assured a supply of pure water. If the eight wells now planned should ever prove insufficient, then we will increase the number.

Some people believe that they must see the supply. They think that to be safe you should take the water from the river. That is only a notion. These people are not acquainted with water-supply problems and have not gone to the trouble to investigate them. Few towns are along a river or a lake; the big majority get their water from a source that is positively distant from a river. Lucky for them. A river is a dangerous source.

These people will say we should filter the river water. We investigated this method, too. We admit freely that water can be filtered, but that requires a large filter plant, extra labor, is only a substitute at best, and in towns where a plant is established it is not always the only source from which water is obtained for that one city. In our case it would mean an extra expense of nearly $100,000. These plants need constant attention; the sands thru which the water is filtered must be washed every now and then, and if not done just properly, in a short time your own filter will contaminate your water and you might just as well be taking it direct again.

They say in Prague that the country has been Bohemia for many hundred of years. Then the Czechoslovakia came and settled in the land, and the two races mixed, until now they are one and the same. The Czechs are in the west, inhabiting ancient Bohemia, and the Slovaks may be called Bohemia, the people are Czechoslovak, according to the version you get in Prague.

There has been a lot of debating as to what the country would be called. Bohemia is a better known name and is easier to say. Czechoslovakia is more correct, according to those who know. Czechoslovakia seems to be winning out.

They say in Prague that the country has been Bohemia for many hundred of years. Then the Czechoslovakia came and settled in the land, and the two races mixed, until now they are one and the same. The Czechs are in the west, inhabiting ancient Bohemia, and the Slovaks are the same nationality farther east.

So they probably will compromise by calling the country Czechoslovakia, though most everyone thinks the language ought to be called Bohemian. The music and literature is Bohemian, and Prague is center of the Bohemian life, and can prove it if any American cities want to contest the question, real Bohemians say.

Gondrecourt, France (By Mail)
 Special—Mail for the soldiers of the 88th Division is reaching them now in less than half the time required before the armistice.

Letters are arriving in the division as early as two weeks after being deposited in the mail boxes in the states. Before the armistice was signed, an average of a month or thirty-six days was required for the travel.

Figures given out by the post office department of the 88th this week show, also, that the soldiers are writing just twice as many letters now as they did before the hostilities ceased. During the autumn months while the division was in the line, the average daily shipment of mail to the home states was 15,000 letters. Today this has increased to 30,000.

Souvenirs are beginning to flood the mail office in greater number than ever. The soldiers have devised a way to send Boche rifles through the postal department by dismounting the gun and boxing it, thus getting around the regulations which limit the size of packages allowed.

Prague, Czechoslovakia, Feb. 5 (By Mail)—Though the country of the Czechoslovak may be rightfully called Bohemia, and the language may be called Bohemia, the people are Czechoslovak, according to the version you get in Prague.

Chairman Hays IN TWIN CITIES

Republicans From All Over the Northwest Gather to Bid Him Welcome.

SPEAKS IN ST. PAUL

Campaign Director Pledges Party to Solving Peace Problems—Senator Kellogg and Governor Burnquist Also Make Addresses.

St. Paul, March 8.—Republicans of Minnesota and the Northwest had a real field day centering around the visit of Will H. Hays, chairman of the Republican National committee, to the Twin Cities.

The climax came at a big mass meeting in the St. Paul Auditorium, when Mr. Hays preached his doctrine of militant, "forward-looking and forward-stepping" Republicanism. Senator Frank B. Kellogg explained his attitude on the league of nations and Governor Burnquist excoriated George Creel.

All through the day Mr. Hays delivered his message of new Republicanism. He talked first at a luncheon given by the Hennepin County Republican committee at the Hotel Radisson. Then he spoke at the Lincoln club. Later he addressed the Minnesota State Senate. Sandwiched in among his talks were many conferences with delegations from Minnesota, North and South Dakota and Montana. He was studying the political situation at close range.

Coincidence gave to the speech of Senator Frank B. Kellogg a significant place on the program. Mr. Hays' speech had been arranged before the turn of affairs in Washington over the league of nations. It became particularly appropriate that Minnesota's junior senator state his position on that question at a great rally of Minnesota Republicans.

Kellogg Favors Workable League.

Senator Kellogg said that he was in favor of a league of nations, but he made it plain, too, that he was in hopes to see a workable plan evolved. He said the league plan must safeguard the Monroe Doctrine.

Speaking of the Republican party, the Republican national chairman said:

"It offers the American nation a history of potent achievement to which it remains consistently steadfast."

their tenders were shipped in each vessel, and cars were shipped in a similar manner. In all 1,313 consolidated standard-gauge locomotives were shipped to France. One American railroad which operates 1,400 miles of track owns in all 1,000 such locomotives.

The number of cars sent abroad through engineering instrumentalities, if put end to end, would extend 140 miles. If the artificers had not been signed 682 miles of cars would have been shipped to France by next July.

Another exhibit shows forestry operations of engineer troops in France. These engineers in the one month of October had an output of 50,000,000 board feet of lumber, or a pile 10 feet high, 12 feet wide and 6.6 miles long. Had the war continued longer this output would have been doubled almost immediately. Standard-gauge railroad ties produced in France by the American engineers would build a line of single-track railroad 1,091 miles long, or a road which would extend from St. Nazaire to Berlin, via Tours and Paris.

Snipers' Suits and Bridges.
The other day an army officer with a sniper's camouflage suit designed by the engineer service went duck hunting. He did not need a blind, so perfect was the way in which he "melted" into his surroundings. Snipers, or as they were called in the old days "sharp-shooters," could work with one of these engineers' suits, almost certain of immunity from detection.

Another exhibit is the pontoon bridges. These are so constructed that in place of being able as formerly to carry only three and one-half tons on one axle, the bridge can support a load of 15 tons on one axle with an added crew of 30 men. These bridges are capable of carrying the heaviest mobile artillery.

Light foot-bridges designed by engineer officers in France, supported on boats made of canvas stretched on wood frames, form a part of this war exhibition. If it had not been for these bridges the crossing of the Meuse river and the taking of the heavily fortified heights on the east of that stream probably would have been impossible.

There are hundreds of other interesting exhibits in this "Show of the Engineers." The engineer corps of the United States army increased in size during the war at a rate out of proportion to the rapidity of the increases in the other branches of the service. The engineers were indispensable for success. They worked and they fought, and they did each with a high heart.

Animals and Toes.

No living representative of the animal kingdom has more than five toes, digits or claws to each foot, hand or limb. The horse is the type of the one-toed creation, the camel of the two-toed, the rhinoceros of the three-toed and the hippopotamus of the four-toed, and the elephant and hundreds of other animals of the five-toed.

fast and a present of loyal and unselfish devotion of which it is justly proud. Its future, guaranteed by its past, underwritten by its present, will measure its steps forward by the new needs of the nation."

Mr. Hays pledged the unselfish efforts of the Republicans of the United States in solving the problems of peace. He said that the country was now as unprepared for peace as it had been unprepared for war.

MEN SECURING SITUATIONS

Conditions Show Improvement All Over the Country.

Washington, March 8.—Material improvement in the unemployment situation over the country is indicated by labor reports issued by Arthur Woods, special assistant to Secretary Baker. Mr. Woods expressed the belief this improvement would continue.

WILL SELL SURPLUS WHEAT

Government Hopes to Prevent Rise in Flour Prices.

Minneapolis, March 8.—The United States Food administration grain corporation announced that on March 15 it will begin sale of its surplus wheat holdings in American milling centers in an effort to prevent an increase in flour prices and prices of bread.

In Minneapolis, where more than 25,000,000 bushels of government owned wheat are stored, 12,500,000 bushels may be released under this plan. Frank L. Carey, Minnesota representative of the grain corporation announced.

Gee-Whiz! How it Hurts— The Pain in My Foot!

"Sometimes it is in my arm. Merciful Heaven, how my back hurts in the morning!" It's all due to an overabundance of that poison called uric acid. The kidneys are not able to get rid of it. Such conditions you can readily overcome, and prolong life by taking the advice of Dr. Pierce, which is "keep the kidneys in good order." "Avoid too much meat, alcohol or tea. Drink plenty of pure water, preferably hot water, before meals, and drive the uric acid out of the system by taking Anuric." This can be obtained at almost any drug store.

Send a bottle of water to the chemist at Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., and you will receive free medical advice as to whether the kidneys are affected. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog, you suffer from backache, sick-headache, dizzy spells, or twinges and pains of lumbar, rheumatism or gout; or sleep is disturbed two or three times a night, take heed, before too late. Get Anuric (anti-uric-acid), for it will put new life into your kidneys and your entire system. Ask your nearest druggist for it or send Dr. Pierce ten cents for trial package.

THE MEN IN CLASS A1

A sound, healthy man is never a back number. A man can be as vigorous and able as twenty as at twenty. Condition, not years, is the factor. A system weakened by overwork and careless living brings old age prematurely. The bodily functions are impaired and unpleasant symptoms appear. The weak spot is generally the kidneys. Keep them clean and in proper working condition and you will generally find yourself in Class A. Take GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules periodically and your system will always be in working order. Your spirits will be enlivened, your muscles supple, your mind active, and your body capable of hard work.

Don't wait until you have been rejected. Commence to be in shape now. Go to your druggist at once. Get a trial box of GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules. They are made of the pure, original, imported Haarlem Oil—the kind your great-grandfather used. Two capsules each day will keep you toned up and feeling fine. Money refunded if they do not help you. Remember to ask for the imported GOLD MEDAL Brand. In three sizes, sealed packages.

WHO DOES THE BUYING FOR YOUR FAMILY?

There is someone in your family who has a big responsibility.

Food to buy for the table; clothes for the children and grown-ups; new household utensils, linen, furniture, books and all the hundred and one little things for which the family income is spent.

In most families, one person does the bulk of the buying. And it is that person's job to see that the money is well spent—that you all get full value for every cent that goes out.

The success of a family depends on wise buying just as the success of a business does.

Wise buying means intelligent buying. It is necessary to have knowledge of goods and stores.

The best way to get this knowledge is by reading advertisements. They tell you what is new and good. They tell you where and when to buy to advantage.

Not only the person who does the buying but every member of the family should read advertisements. It is the duty of all the others to help the one who does the buying by pointing out advertisements of new goods and giving all the information possible as to tastes and styles and values.

Advertisements are published for your benefit. Make use of them by reading them.

HUNDREDS KILLED IN BERLIN STREET FIGHTING

NAVAL EXPERTS GOING TO EUROPE

Secretary Daniels Will Head Distinguished Party of American Seamen.

BAKER TO MAKE TRIP

War Department Head Intends to Leave About April 1 to Close Up Business Operations of United States Forces.

Washington, March 8.—Secretary Daniels and a party of American naval experts will depart next week to discuss with Allied naval officials the best type of capital warships to be built in the future, based on the lessons gained in the war.

Because of conflicting opinions among American officers, the secretary has been asked to submit a definite recommendation to the next congress in December.

It also was learned Secretary Baker would sail for Europe about April 1 to close up the business operations of the American Expeditionary forces. He will be absent about six weeks, and probably will arrive overseas before Secretary Daniels returns. Thus President Wilson and the heads of both the army and the navy probably will be away from the country at the same time—a situation without precedent.

Several Admirals Going.

The naval secretary will be accompanied by Rear Admiral Taylor, chief of the bureaus of construction and repair; Griffin, chief of the Bureau of steam engineering; Marie, chief of the Bureau of ordnance, and Commander Polote, his personal aide. The party will be joined overseas by Admiral Benson, chief of the Bureau of operations, who is attached to the American peace delegation, and Vice Admiral Sims, commanding all American naval forces in European waters.

Mr. Daniels and his party will sail from New York on the Leviathan next Thursday and will go first to Paris to confer with the French admiralty. Later they will visit London and Rome and probably will be away a month or more. No plans have been made for the return trip.

While all deductions to be drawn from war experience will be discussed in detail, the American mission will address itself particularly to the question of future types of capital ships.

It has been the judgment of the navy general board, charged with fixing the military characteristics of new ships, that the United States should continue to build dreadnaughts of constantly increasing power, and battle cruisers. This view is held by Rear Admiral Fletcher, chairman of the general board, and former commander of the Atlantic fleet.

YOUTH CONFESES ROBBERY

Implicates Three Others in Holdup Netting $62,600.

New York, March 8.—Gustave Mignone, a youth of 20, was arrested on a charge of robbery in connection with the theft of $62,600 in securities from Milton Strom, a Wall Street messenger boy.

The police declared that Mignone had confessed, implicating three other boys.

Strom was robbed of $49,000 worth of Liberty Bonds and $13,600 in other securities after he had been lured to a deserted stairway in an office building on lower Broadway and knocked unconscious by a blow on the head.

CANADIAN SOLDIERS IN RIOT

About a Score Reported Killed at Camp in Wales.

London, March 8.—From eight to 27 persons are estimated to have been killed and from 26 to 70 wounded in rioting during the past three days at the Kinnel military camp at Rhyl, Wales, according to a Liverpool dispatch received here. Great property damage was caused, the dispatch adds.

According to latest reports from Liverpool the riot was started by about 200 malcontents. They contended that their embarkation had been postponed while other men who had seen less service were sent home.

President Answers Alarm to Abandon Ship, Adjusting Life Belt.

On Board U. S. S. George Washington, March 8.—President Wilson's rest was cut short by the sounding of a general alarm summoning all hands to the boats to abandon ship. The signal for the boat drill came at 9 a.m. and the president arose and escorted Mrs. Wilson to their boat. He adjusted Mrs. Wilson's and his own life belt and stood quietly by until the drill was completed.

The general strike was expected to develop. Workmen tonight adopted resolutions endorsing the Spartacists' latest demands including the abolition of all war loans and debts.

Spartacists Losing General Strike Gaining

BY FRANK J. TAYLOR
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Berlin, March 8, 6 p. m.—The Spartacists determined this afternoon to break off all negotiations with the government and settle the issue by fighting. This action was taken despite the fact that the government forces were extending their control and apparently had broken the revolution.

After a day of comparative success the revolutionists were again on the defensive tonight and the battle had become one of guerrilla warfare. The tide turned when the government airplanes began dropping huge bombs on the roof of the royal stables occupied by the revolting sailors. The buildings were practically demolished and scores of sailors were killed or wounded. The remainder surrendered. Shortly afterward Alexanderplatz was taken by storm and hundreds of revolutionists were taken prisoners.

While the Spartacists were losing their hard won military advantage the general strike was gaining. Workmen tonight adopted resolutions endorsing the Spartacists' latest demands including the abolition of all war loans and debts.

BY FRANK J. TAYLOR,
(Staff Correspondent, United Press)

Fighting Continues After Strike Ends

BY FRANK J. TAYLOR
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Berlin, March 8—Despite the action of the strike leaders fighting continued in some parts of Berlin after 1 o'clock. The rebels were battling desperately in the northeastern section of the city behind cobblestone barriers and rolls of print paper. They were holding off a vastly superior government force.

Alexander-Platz has been battered until it resembled a front line village. Kaiserstrasse was strewn with dead and wounded. Unofficial estimates place the dead at 300 and the wounded at 500.

GERMAN REBELS RALLY

Berlin Strike Gains Strength After Defeat.

More Volunteer Guards Go Over to Spartacists—Many Wounded in Street Fighting.

Berlin, March 8—Fighting on the streets has broken out with renewed violence. After the rebels seemed to have been crushed and radical leaders conceded defeat the Spartacists rallied.

The general strike, which had almost flickered out, seemed to be gaining strength today.

Many Republican guards were wounded in the street fighting in various parts of the city. The scenes of disorder, however, were still widely scattered.

Some radical chiefs changed their attitude of pessimism and threatened to develop a revolution which would accomplish what the first Spartacist outbreak failed to accomplish.

Government mastery of the situation, so evident a few hours ago, appeared at the time of cabling, to be precarious. The fighting continues.

Guards Join Spartacists.

London, March 8—A German wireless dispatch received here states that in addition to the volunteer marine division and a portion of the Republican militia, parts of the second guard regiment, and the guard fusilier regiment, have gone over to the Spartacists.

Coblenz, March 8—Disturbances in Berlin and other parts of unoccupied Germany have resulted in such an increase in the number of civilians eager to reach the bridgehead area, where conditions are more normal, that the American forces of occupation have been compelled to take steps to prevent Germans from all parts of the country overrunning the occupied zone along the Rhine.

SEEK AGREEMENT ON TERMS

United States, France and England Try to Iron Out Differences.

Paris, March 8—Premier Lloyd George, Premier Georges Clemenceau and Colonel E. M. House conferred for an hour before the meeting of the supreme council in an effort to iron out the differences of the three nations over the military, naval and economic questions connected with the preliminary peace terms.

Army and navy experts of the several countries, it is said, have been unable to agree on the terms.

Paris, March 8—if the Irish question is not settled by the peace conference, friends of Ireland will stop ratification of the league of nations in the American congress, Sean O'Ceallaigh (John O'Kelly), the delegate of the provisional Irish republic to the peace conference, declared in a statement. He expressed doubt that any league of nations could be formed and said that the Irish "have spoken gently" to President Wilson long enough.

"We can stop ratification of this league of nations in congress if the Irish question is not settled," the Irish delegate declared. "It is my opinion that there will be no league of nations; at any rate there will be no peace in Europe, because Ireland will fight and the world knows that Ireland can fight."

"We believe we are powerful enough in America to make President Wilson enforce the principles outlined in his peace plan concerning the rights of nations to dispose of themselves. We have pleaded and spoke gently to him long enough. The time has come for acts."

DULUTH TEAMSTERS STRIKE

Demand More Pay Because of State Bureau Ruling.

Duluth, March 8—Following the decision of the state bureau of weights and measures that each lot of coal sold to consumers must be weighed separately, members of the Duluth Team Owners' union, employed by the four dock companies, declared a strike. The team owners ask that they be given 50 cents a ton for additional work caused by the order, and the fuel companies offered but 25 cents.

AMOUNT OF CORN ON FARMS

Farmers Retain About 34 Per Cent of the 1918 Crop.

Washington, March 8—The amount of corn on farms March 1 was 34.2 per cent of the 1918 crop, or 884,476,000 bushels, the Department of Agriculture estimated. This figure is 6.7 lower than the corresponding figure for March 1, 1918.

Wheat held on farms March 1 was 129,258,000 bushels, estimated to be 14.1 per cent of the 1918 crop.

BONDS EXEMPT FROM TAXES

Treasury Department Assures Numerous Inquirers.

Washington, March 8—In answer to numerous inquiries concerning Liberty Bond tax exemption, the treasury announced that a maximum of $110,000 of Liberty Bonds may be held by any tax payer with interest exempt from surtaxes and excess profits and war profits taxes, providing the holdings are distributed in a certain way.

MUST DESTROY ALL SUBMARINES

Peacemakers Decide to Make It Condition of Final Agreement With Teutons.

FOOD QUESTION IS UP

Bohemia and German-Austria Must Be Supplied if Spread of Anarchism is to Be Prevented—Situation is Critical.

Paris, March 8—Notice of the interruption of the negotiations at Spa with respect to the surrender of the German merchant fleet was received by the supreme council at its meeting.

London, March 8—A German wireless message received here states that the German delegates to the Armistice conference at Spa demanded, before the surrender of the German ships be considered, that adequate food supplies, say 2,500,000 tons of foodstuffs, be assured Germany until the new harvest. The Entente would not agree to this.

Paris, March 8—The "big five" have agreed upon destruction of German submarines as one of the conditions to be incorporated in the final peace treaty. This decision was reached in the course of the council's review of the naval terms to be imposed upon the Germans.

Decision was reserved, however, with regard to the proposal that the Kiel canal be destroyed and the fortifications of Heligoland be reduced. The fate of the German fleet also remains undecided.

Food Question Considered.

The "big five" also took up the proposition of sending food to Bohemia and German Austria. Means of getting supplies into the districts which most urgently need them were to be discussed. The populations of these territories, it is felt, must be kept from going hungry, if the spread of Bolshevism is to be prevented.

Premier Lloyd George, since his return to Paris, has added his weight to speeding up proceedings not only toward an early signing of the peace treaty, but also toward quickly meeting the food situation in Central Europe.

British reports regarding conditions in Germany and German Austria are similar to the reports reaching the Americans. Conditions in Austria are described as being most critical, the people being on the verge of starvation. The delegates appreciate that this situation may become so serious that Germany will break up, making the signing of any kind of a peace impossible.

Le Temps has raised an objection to the Allies feeding German-Austria, voicing a widespread French sentiment against it. However, it is generally looked on by peace delegates as a necessary step in bringing about world peace and tranquility.

WOMAN'S REALM

NEW PASTOR AT THE 1ST CONGREGATIONAL

Rev. Fred Errington of Grand Ledge, Michigan, to Preach Sunday Morning on Subject

"HEARTS AND HANDS"

Evening Subject to be "After the War Slackers"—Minister Pleased With Brainerd

Rev. and Mrs. Fred Errington and children arrived here Friday from Michigan. Mr. Errington begins his work as pastor of the First Congregational church tomorrow morning. He is a graduate of an English college and of the Chicago Theological Seminary, and has had pastorates in Michigan and Illinois, coming here after four years at Grand Ledge, Michigan, where he was requested to remain.

Mr. Errington's first impression of Brainerd were such that he felt strongly inclined to accept the call to the local pastorate. The new pastor's subject tomorrow morning will be "Hearts and Heads," and in the evening "After the War Slackers."

SURPRISE NEW MINISTER

Rev. and Mrs. P. G. Fallquist Given a Pleasant Surprise on Friday Evening

On Friday evening about 70 members and friends of the Swedish Bethany church went to the parsonage of the church and pleasantly surprised Rev. and Mrs. Fallquist.

Rev. P. Alfred Peterson, of the Swedish Baptist church, gave a speech extending a hearty welcome to the minister and his wife to join in the Lord's work in this city and expressed his wish that they can cooperate in the advancement of the doctrines of Christianity.

John Soderlund also spoke, saying this was a home coming party, as Rev. Fallquist has had a kindly feeling and a good word for Brainerd since he was pastor here some 15 years ago. He also presented the minister with a large purse from the members and friends.

Rev. Fallquist responded, saying he was glad to be in Brainerd again. Since leaving here he has visited in Sweden and had churches in the eastern, central and western parts of the United States. He was glad to see so many of his former Sunday school children now grown to young womanhood and manhood still attending the church and taking an active interest in the work. He thanked Rev. Peterson for his words of welcome and was assured they would meet with success in mutual cooperation. He extended a hearty welcome to all to attend church and again visit with them.

A pleasant evening was spent in conversation and music. The ladies served refreshments.

The "Favorite Recipe Club" of St. Cloud, will hold an open meeting next Wednesday afternoon in the normal school auditorium. This is a new kind of a club and has no duplicate in Brainerd.

WRITING IT RIGHT

By MARGARET ROHE
(Written for the United Press)

Which billet doux, I ask you now, shows that she loves you better. One with the goo stuff writ by hand, or a typewritten letter?

New York, March 7—Nowadays, when the modern maid takes her pen in hand, it's usually a typewriter. She has found she can gush and goo and protest and promise quite as effectively, twice as legibly and three times as convincingly by the machine. Besides, it does save such a lot of valuable time for her shopping, matineeing, bridging and Red Crossing. Not nearly so many serio-comic lovers' quarrels and complications arise therefrom, either. In the old days, when Percy or Clarence misread all sorts of wild things from the undecipherable pothooks of her chirography, it was frightfully upsetting. Many a crossed love was caused by an uncrossed T, and an undotted I occasioned many a moist one.

Lovers really owe an awful lot to the typewriter. Ofttimes, as like as not, they even owe for it. It is not only as a complete love letter writer, however, that the typewriter is now the thing. For all sorts of personal correspondence the 1919 maid, wife or widowed has pressed, or rather pounded, it into service. She uses the smartest stationery in severe grey, cream or white, expensive of texture and large of size, with great square envelopes to match. A legible monogram or initial is embossed in a color which the typewriter ribbon must shade up to. Oh, it is all very chic and efficient, and best of all, easily read, this newest typewritten first class female mail.

Don't for a minute think, though, that we are to be free for ever more from the fine flowing Spencerian or heavy black back-hand script adorned epistles of yore. They still clutter up the 1919 mail bags with all the assorted accompanying paraphernalia of perfumed sealing wax gobs, weird monograms, violet tints and exciting shapes.

True to type, if the 1919 female can't be true to the typewriter she reverts to the other extreme and goes in for the quill pen and sealing wax accessories of the Victorian era complete letter writer. There are no half way measures for her.

Have you a little "encrier" in your home? If you are just back from Paris it's a sure bet you have. Of course all we post graduates of "How to Parlez vous in Five Lessons" know that an "encrier" is simply French for inkstand. But there's nothing simple about the revived vogue of Parisian encriers that all of us are bringing home. No indeed they are as complete and complicated with all the comforts of home as a latest model limousine, with hot and cold running ink, one candle power light, and a place for everything and everything in its place for fascinating correspondence.

The encriers are of china with gilt metal finishings, and the most attractive are copies if not actually antiques. Fitted according to size with one or two inkwells, they are equipped besides with a stick of sealing wax, a small candle and a flaunting quill pen all in a matching tint, a seal whose handle is of the same china as the encriers, a pencil and a depression full of gold dust for drying the quill after use.

The whole effect is so antiquely artistic and charmingly convenient that it tempts to a mad attack of writer's cramp. Especially as most fetching stationery in enchanting colors, smartly monogrammed as the seal is engraved is an accompanying adjunct of the encrier.

It certainly is a far cry from the typewritten form to the encrier form of correspondence, but you may rest assured if you just choose one or the other you are sure to write right.

PLAIN QUESTIONS TO BRAINERD PEOPLE

Every Brainerd Reader Will Admit the Soundness of the Logic

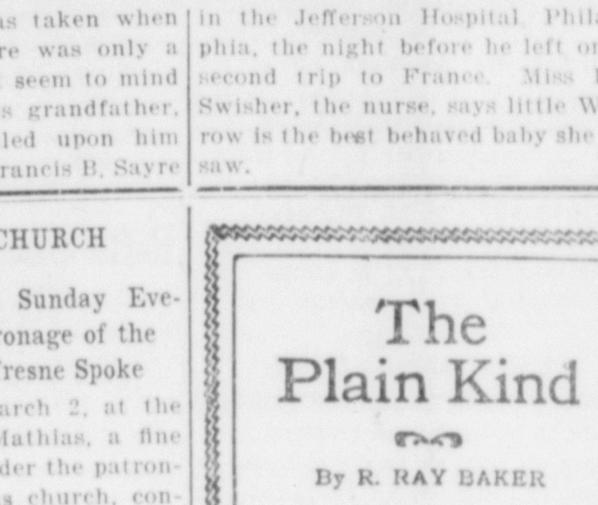

Would Brainerd people recommend Doan's Kidney Pills as they do if the medicine were not reliable? Would they confirm their statements after years have elapsed if their experiences did not show the remedy to be deserving of it? Statements like the following must carry conviction to the mind of every reader:

Wm. Bourquin, carpenter, 913 7th St., Brainerd, says: "Some time ago I was suffering from kidney and bladder complaint. The kidney secretions were too frequent. I had backache and pains through my sides. The trouble kept me from my work and gave me much annoyance. I used Doan's Kidney Pills and soon secured relief from the trouble. Now the aches and pains are gone." (Statement given October 28, 1913.)

On November 3, 1917, Mr. Bourquin said: "Colds sometimes disorder my kidneys but I can rely on Doan's Kidney Pills to relieve me. I have the same good words for Doan's as when I previously endorsed them."

As the days rolled past their relations became more intimate, and frequently they talked of personal things. The man proved fascinating beyond her most imaginative dreams of knights, and she held an attraction for him to which none of the patrons of the hotel, who were bound to notice what went on, could reconcile themselves, especially the feminine element, which was in the majority.

Price 60¢ at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Bourquin had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfgs., Buffalo, N. Y.

There was no question about it. Martha Bain was not beautiful. Freckles are not necessarily rocks on the road of romance. Neither is a pig nose, nor straggly hair of a rusty hue. But Martha had them all, and was not given a part in Cupid's drama. That is, she had no part in it until—well, this was the way of it:

Perched behind the desk in Eagle Heights hotel Martha watched the summer lads woo the summer lasses, and her little heart, which really was very big, thumped away unnoticed and neglected. Perhaps if she had obtained a polished personality at a finishing school she might have made herself interesting to the knights from the big town; but Martha's father considered a high school education sufficient for his hotel clerk, specially since people went there in quest of the rustic.

Nevertheless, Martha often dreamed when she sat at the edge of Walloon lake in the light of the moon, that she had a knight of her own—sometimes two of them.

Harold Kingsley came to Eagle Heights for a month's recreation from his literary labors. He was tall and slim, almost to the point of lankiness, and he had black hair and deep brown eyes from which a soul seemed to shine.

When he came along the beach Martha was throwing sticks into the water for a white fox terrier to chase. Harold stopped and watched, standing some distance behind the girl, so she did not become aware of his presence.

"Come on, Knight," she admonished, and the dog emerged from the water holding a jagged stick, which he dropped at the girl's feet. Then Knight spied Harold and went to him just as a shaking spell seized him.

"Oh, I beg your pardon," Martha exclaimed, when she turned and saw Harold brushing drops of water from his clothes. "That is, Knight begs your pardon."

Harold laughed lightly and reaching down, patted the terrier regardless of the latter's dripping skin.

"Don't bother about the apologies," he remonstrated. "I can dry out again. Besides, this is not my best suit. I have another—honest."

From that time they were friends, the three of them. Nearly every evening they were together, walking along the tanbark paths in the woods or seated in a secluded nook on the lake shore.

Sometimes he talked to her of the big town and the sights he had seen on his travels; at other times he read or recited poetry.

As the days rolled past their relations became more intimate, and frequently they talked of personal things. The man proved fascinating beyond her most imaginative dreams of knights, and she held an attraction for him to which none of the patrons of the hotel, who were bound to notice what went on, could reconcile themselves, especially the feminine element, which was in the majority.

One night Harold grasped Martha's tha's eyes, and Knight sniffed as he were crying, too.

"Now you're my only Knight," she said to the dog.

Something rustled behind them and the dog growled as he sprang toward the sound; but the growl was smothered in his throat and his tail began to wag furiously.

Martha looked and her eyes met those of Harold Kingsley, standing with his hands in his coat pockets, a queer little smile curving his mouth.

For a moment Martha was too astonished for words.

"Why, why—I thought you and Miss Ross left on—left on that boat," she finally managed to stammer.

He reached and picked a leaf from a tree, and crumpled it in his hand.

"You thought right, partly," he said. "Miss Ross is on that boat, but we, well, we had a disagreement after she made a show—after she kicked this little dog, and so things are not—they are different now. QUEER COINCIDENT

It is a queer coincidence that the same place where for years beer was brewed in Brainerd is now chosen the site for a new water supply for Brainerd. While it is too late to advocate or advertise the purity of the beer formerly brewed at Boom lake, our taste for water at least vindicate, at this late day, the former claims for that product of malt and hops. However, the site to be chosen is not exactly the old brewery site, as the topography there is not sufficiently convenient.

It is interesting to observe the easy manner in which the Board tends to sweep aside objections to taking water from an underground source. The board has no doubt as to the adequacy of the supply, and will present ample proof to support its contention. We urge everybody to read these articles carefully.

WHY YOU SHOULD VOTE WATER WORKS BONDS

A series of articles prepared by the Water & Light Board to explain why new water works are necessary, what is planned to replace the old works, and the suitability of that which is advocated.

The Source for Water

We believe that in the whole of the question before you the most queries will be in reference to taking water from gravel beds by wells. You are all familiar with taking water from gravel beds with a pump for use around your home or farm. Let us start with the proper location, then obtain the proper depth, then multiply the number of wells and use larger pipes and then you have a well-system for a city. We will use eight wells and eight-inch pipe, and instead of making only a few strokes on a pump handle, like you do, we will pump for hours, day in and day out.

The Board started several years ago to test for suitable water supply. It drilled on the east and west side of the river. It drilled from Rice Lake on the north to below Boom Lake on the south. Only south of Boom Lake did we find a large gravel bed and excellent water, and enough water. The gravel bed is 80 to 100 feet below the general level of the city and about 30 feet below the river bottom. There is no possible chance for pollution from any source. We are positively assured a supply of pure water. If the eight wells now planned should ever prove insufficient, then we will increase the number.

Some people believe that they must see the supply. They think that to be safe you should take the water from the river. That is only a notion. These people are not acquainted with water-supply problems and have not gone to the trouble to investigate them. Few towns are along a river or a lake; the big majority get their water from a source that is positively distant from a river. Lucky for them. A river is a dangerous source.

These people will say we should filter the river water. We investigated this method, too. We admit freely that water can be filtered, but that requires a large filter plant, extra labor, is only a substitute at best, and in towns where a plant is established it is not always the only source from which water is obtained for that one city. In our case it would mean an extra expense of nearly $100,000. These plants need constant attention; the sands thru which the water is filtered must be washed every now and then, and if not done just properly, in a short time your own filter will contaminate your water and you might just as well be taking it direct again.

They say in Prague that the country has been Bohemia for many hundreds of years. Then the Czech-Slovaks came and settled in the land, and the two races mixed, until now they are one and the same. The Czechs are in the west, inhabiting ancient Bohemia, and the Slovaks are the same nationality farther east.

So they probably will compromise by calling the Country Czech-Slovakia, though most everyone thinks the language ought to be called Bohemian. The music and literature is Bohemian, and Prague is center of the Bohemian life, and can prove it if any American cities want to contest the question, real Bohemians say.

LIEUT. WILLIAM J. DUGAN

Czecho-Slovakia One With Bohemia

By FRANK J. TAYLOR
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Prague, Czecho-Slovakia, Feb. 5 (By Mail)—Though the country of the Czecho-Slovaks may be rightfully called Bohemia, and the language may be called Bohemia, the people are Czecho-Slovaks, according to the version you get in Prague.

There has been a lot of debating as to what the country would be called. Bohemia is a better known name and is easier to say. Czecho-Slovakia is more correct, according to those who know. Czecho-Slovakia seems to be winning out.

They say in Prague that the country has been Bohemia for many hundreds of years. Then the Czech-Slovaks came and settled in the land, and the two races mixed, until now they are one and the same. The Czechs are in the west, inhabiting ancient Bohemia, and the Slovaks are the same nationality farther east.

So they probably will compromise by calling the Country Czech-Slovakia, though most everyone thinks the language ought to be called Bohemian. The music and literature is Bohemian, and Prague is center of the Bohemian life, and can prove it if any American cities want to contest the question, real Bohemians say.

Mail Now Reaches Soldier Much Faster

(By the Overseas Camp Dodge News Service)

Gondrecourt, France (By Mail)—Special—Mail for the soldiers of the 88th Division is reaching them now in less than half the time required before the armistice.

Letters are arriving in the division as early as two weeks after being deposited in the mail boxes in the states. Before the armistice was signed, an average of a month or thirty-six days was required for the travel.

Figures given out by the post-office department of the 88th this week show, also, that the soldiers are writing just twice as many letters now as they did before the hostilities ceased. During the autumn months while the division was in the line, the average daily shipment of mail to the home states was 15,000 letters. Today this has increased to 30,000.

Souvenirs are beginning to flood the mail office in greater number than ever. The soldiers have devised a way to send Boche rifles through the postal department by dismounting the gun and boxing it, thus getting around the regulations which limit the size of packages allowed.

Step Higher Up.

If all our actions and motives in daily life could be actuated by a subconscious and all-pervading idea of fitting ourselves as we go along step by step for figurative letters of recommendation as to our ability to capably hold the next trench ahead, how surely would our foes of slackness, dilatoriness and incompetence be routed.

MEMORIAL HOSPITAL MAY BE SELECTED

As Method of Building Lasting Memorial to Crow Wing County Soldiers and Sailors

MEMORIAL COMMITTEE MEETING

Permanent Organization Effectuated, W. H. Gemmell Chairman and Wm. F. Marx Secretary

The Liberty Memorial Hospital, dedicated as a lasting memorial in honor of Crow Wing county soldiers and sailors, may be established in Brainerd as the result of the deliberations of the joint committee appointed by President J. A. Thabes, of the Chamber of Commerce, Mayor R. A. Beise and the Trades & Labor assembly, which met at the Chamber of Commerce last evening to discuss the subject of a memorial.

A permanent organization was effected, and a discussion of different forms of a suitable memorial participated in by nearly every member present. There was a good attendance from the Trades & Labor Assembly, the Chamber of Commerce and the city committee was well represented. The consensus of opinion seemed to favor the establishment of a county hospital in Brainerd, to be erected by public subscription and financed, in a measure through public liberality, such a hospital would in no way encroach upon the field now administered to by local hospitals. This was one of several suggestions offered, the others being a Liberty Building such as are being erected in other cities or an assembly room set aside in the new Court House building, and to be known as Liberty Hall. The deliberations last evening were of a preliminary nature and it will be some little time before a final decision is made as to the nature of the memorial, the location of the same and the methods of financing.

Permanent Organization

President J. A. Thabes opened the meeting, stated its purpose and called for nominations for a general chairman. W. H. Gemmell was made chairman of the meeting and the permanent organization perfected as follows: W. H. Gemmell, chairman; Wm. F. Marx, secretary.

Sub committees:

Finance—Geo. D. LaBar, chairman; F. M. Koop, Peter Brown.

Form and Shape Memorial should take—E. Hugdahl, S. R. Adair, R. T. Campbell.

Location—C. L. Motl, H. W. Linemann, F. L. Britton.

Co-operative Support—T. L. Johnson, Fremont Turcotte, J. J. Murphy.

The appointments from the Trades & Labor Assembly were made subject to the approval of the different organizations represented, as the members of the committee stated that they were without power to act at last evening's meeting, but were simply there to obtain an idea of the propositions for a memorial and to report to their different organizations. Dr. J. A. Thabes was made a member ex-officio of the committee.

Building for Permanency

It was the consensus of opinion that while a monument or ornamental arch would be an attractive ornament to the city, it would not be as practical nor as permanent as an auditorium or liberty building or the establishment of a county hospital, the latter being much needed in Brainerd. Many suggestions were made relative to the hospital proposition in particular, and much interest was indicated in this form of memorial.

Adjournment was taken to two weeks from Friday, March 21, and meanwhile the different sub-committees will give the work allotted to them careful attention and be prepared to report something definite in the shape of recommendations at the next meeting. The keen interest indicated by the representatives of the labor organizations present may be taken as indication that if a practical proposition is submitted, labor unions will get back of it to a man and this will insure its success.

Those Present

The following representatives men attended the conference:

Dr. J. A. Thabes, W. H. Gemmell, J. P. Anderson, S. R. Adair, S. L. Motl and F. T. Lincoln of the Chamber of Commerce; Fremont Turcotte, Henry J. Linemann, City Engineer, E. H. Gemmell, C. Campbell, of the city committee; E. Hugdahl, Joe Gabiou, Maurice Keene, J. J. Murphy, Carl Bulowksi, Geo. Bahne, Lawrence O'Toole, F. L. Britton, Wm. F. Marx, and Peter Brown of the Trades and Labor Assembly.

POLITICAL ANNOUNCEMENT

Paul G. Clarkson, who has been a resident of Brainerd for the past seven years and identified with many lines of industrial activity, leaves Brainerd tonight to accept a position with the Vacuum Oil Co., the largest refiners of high grade lubricants in the world.

For the past two and a half years he has had charge of the finishing and shipping departments for the Northwest Paper Co., also acting as clerk in the purchase and disbursement of supplies for the local mill.

Mr. Clarkson has ever been active in civic and lodge affairs having held the office of Senior Counsellor of the local U. C. T. Council, secretary of the Elks Lodge, member of Chamber of Commerce and drawn on 4-Minute Man and Safety Commission.

GREAT COLLECTION OF SOUVENIRS SHOWN

Displayed in Windows of D. M. Clark & Co., Belong to Private Howard Mahlum

GAS MASK, HELMETS, ETC.

Prussian Guard Helmet Peppered by Machine Gun Bullets—Bayonets 1871 Vintage

In the D. M. Clark & Co. window is a collection of war souvenirs belonging to Private Howard Mahlum who was in the forestry division in France and in his travels was in England, Ireland, Scotland, France, Switzerland, Italy and Spain.

Gaining the collection was not so difficult a matter, said Mr. Mahlum, but keeping possession of them was a task and involved packing them around for 7000 miles.

In the exhibit are Yank, French and German helmets, bayonets some of the vintage of 1871 dating back to the Franco-Prussian war, gas mask, knives, plate, cups, haversack, etc. Flashing above the general gray surroundings gleams a Prussian guard helmet which had been peppered by machine-gun bullets.

Interviewed about his relics, Mr. Mahlum said:

Friends have asked a history of my "war relics" and I thought best to give a general story and treat them as a whole.

It was of the second battle of the Marne that I hope to tell mostly. The latter part of August the sector around Soissons was silent although fighting was expected at any time. I wanted a collection of souvenirs badly.

Realizing that it was unsafe to prowl through the war stricken country alone for fear of being picked off by a sniper, still I was bent upon carrying out my purpose. During this adventure I had my greatest war thrilling experience. I could not begin to do justice to this subject unless told in detail.

While going over a war country where the lines have been driven back but few days before, for the sole purpose of exploring for souvenirs, is in itself exciting, but when you discover some and suddenly become conscious that you are alone on what was No Man's Land not long before, you have a feeling of uneasiness but just enough thrill to make you feel the dare. So on this road I gathered my Marne, Soissons and Chateau Thierry collection.

Campaign and Romaine I remember best, when I think of the story related to me by one of the black devils. Picture so many white clouds in contact with the earth. It was a gas barrage. Their detachment became separated from the company. Germans were suddenly confronted. These isolated soldiers beat a hasty retreat to a small shell hole.

A slip of a boy dared to crawl over to a larger one and when they found him with fourteen holes in the hip they also found that his facial countenance bore a smile that coincided with his mother's picture tightly enclosed in his hand.

In the Argonne, a scouting party came up the two. The officer of the patrol guard asked, "What are you doing away from your post?" The boy said, "I brought a blanket for my pal, sir." "Yes," remarked the officer, "but he is dead." The boy said, "I know, but he looks so cold there."

Spiked helmets with the insignia "Waterloo" were worn by the Prussian Guards, Germany's best fighters, only during the first year or so. The potus who took the spiked helmet after having killed the hun, home during a furlough returned to be killed the day of the armistice.

The small bayonets have their history at Rethen, having been used in the war of 1871 but needed during the crisis owing to lack of material.

Centering upon France, Switzerland and Italy found our first permanent camp without any army bugle. A French bugle was purchased at Lyons. We had two buglers and both blew the same instrument. One was taken ill with the influenza while the other contracted the same sickness a week later. They both died in Base Hospital No. 17 Dijon, two weeks later. Taps was the last play after having killed the hun, home during a furlough returned to be killed the day of the armistice.

How Railway Locomotives and Cars Were Shipped to France—Forestry Operations There Were Extensive—Pontoon and Foot Bridges.

By EDWARD B. CLARK.

Washington.—The engineer department of the United States army is proud of the record that its men made during the war, and it is correspondingly proud of the developments of the engineering service from the time the first shot was fired.

Their tenders were shipped in each vessel, and cars were shipped in a similar manner. In all 1,313 consolidated standard-gauge locomotives were shipped to France. One American railroad which operates 1,400 miles of track owns in all 1,000 such locomotives.

The number of cars sent abroad through engineering instrumentalities, if put end to end, would extend 149 miles. If the armistice had not been signed 682 miles of cars would have been shipped to France by next July.

Another exhibit shows forestry operations of engineer troops in France. These engineers in the one month of October had an output of 50,000,000 board feet of lumber, or a pile 10 feet high, 12 feet wide and 6.6 miles long. Had the war continued longer this output would have been doubled almost immediately. Standard-gauge railroad ties produced in France by the American engineers would build a line of single-track railroad 1,001 miles long, or a road which would extend from St. Nazaire to Berlin, via Tours and Paris.

Snipers' Suits and Bridges.

The other day an army officer with a sniper's camouflage suit designed by the engineer service went duck hunting. He did not need a blind, so perfect was the way in which he "melted" into his surroundings. Snipers, or as they were called in the old days "sharp-shooters," could work with one of these engineers' suits, almost certain of immunity from detection.

Another exhibit is the pontoon bridges. These are so constructed that in place of being able as formerly to carry only three and one-half tons on one axle, the bridge can support a load of 15 tons on one axle with an added crew of 30 men. These bridges are capable of carrying the heaviest mobile artillery.

Light foot-bridges designed by engineer officers in France, supported on boats made of canvas stretched on wood frames, form a part of this war exhibition. If it had not been for these bridges the crossing of the Meuse river and the taking of the heavily fortified heights on the east of that stream probably would have been impossible.

There are hundreds of other interesting exhibits in this "Show of the Engineers." The engineer corps of the United States army increased in size during the war at a rate out of proportion to the rapidity of the increases in the other branches of the service. The engineers were indispensable for success. They worked and they fought, and they did each with a high heart.

Animals and Toes.

No living representative of the animal kingdom has more than five toes, digits or claws to each foot, hand or limb. The horse is the type of the one-toed creation, the camel of the two-toed, the rhinoceros of the three-toed and the elephant and hundreds of other animals of the five-toed.

There are illustrations in the exhibit showing complete American locomotives being hoisted into steamships for shipment abroad. Thirty-five of these huge locomotives with fast and a present of loyal and unselfish devotion of which it is justly proud. Its future, guaranteed by its past, underwritten by its present, will measure its steps forward by the new needs of the nation."

Mr. Hays pledged the unselfish efforts of the Republicans of the United States in solving the problems of peace. He said that the country was now as unprepared for peace as it had been unprepared for war.

Campaign Director Pledges Party to Solving Peace Problems—Senator Kellogg and Governor Burnquist Also Make Addresses.

St. Paul, March 8.—Republicans of Minnesota and the Northwest had a real field day centering around the visit of W. H. Hays, chairman of the Republican National committee, to the Twin Cities.

While confessing his task of replacing discharged soldiers in industry had rather awed him, Mr. Woods said he did not view the problem as a serious one. The majority of the discharged soldiers are finding positions for themselves, he said.

WILL SELL SURPLUS WHEAT

Government Hopes to Prevent Rise in Flour Prices.

Minneapolis, March 8.—The United States Food administration grain corporation announced that on March 15 it will begin sale of its surplus wheat holdings in American milling centers in an effort to prevent an increase in flour prices and prices of bread.

In Minneapolis, where more than 25,000,000 bushels of government owned wheat are stored, 12,500,000 bushels may be released under this plan. Frank L. Carey, Minnesota representative of the grain corporation announced.

At through the day Mr. Hays delivered his message of new Republicanism. He talked first at a luncheon given by the Hennepin County Republican committee at the Hotel Radisson. Then he spoke at the Lincoln club. Later he addressed the Minnesota State Senate. Sandwiched in among his talks were many conferences with delegations from Minnesota, North and South Dakota and Montana. He was studying the political situation at close range.

Coincidence gave to the speech of Senator Frank B. Kellogg a significant place on the program. Mr. Hays' speech here had been arranged before the turn of affairs in Washington over the league of nations. It became particularly appropriate that Minnesota's junior senator state his position on that question at a great rally of Minnesota Republicans.

Kellogg Favors Workable League. Senator Kellogg said that he was in favor of a league of nations, but he made it plain, too, that he was in hopes to see a workable plan evolved. He said the league plan must safeguard the Monroe Doctrine.

Speaking of the Republican party, the Republican national chairman said:

"It offers the American nation a history of potent achievement to which it remains consistently steady."

The engineers were indispensable for success. They worked and they fought, and they did each with a high heart.

Snipers' Suits and Bridges.

The other day an army officer with a sniper's camouflage suit designed by the engineer service went duck hunting. He did not need a blind, so perfect was the way in which he "melted" into his surroundings. Snipers, or as they were called in the old days "sharp-shooters," could work with one of these engineers' suits, almost certain of immunity from detection.

Another exhibit is the pontoon bridges. These are so constructed that in place of being able as formerly to carry only three and one-half tons on one axle, the bridge can support a load of 15 tons on one axle with an added crew of 30 men. These bridges are capable of carrying the heaviest mobile artillery.

Light foot-bridges designed by engineer officers in France, supported on boats made of canvas stretched on wood frames, form a part of this war exhibition. If it had not been for these bridges the crossing of the Meuse river and the taking of the heavily fortified heights on the east of that stream probably would have been impossible.

There are hundreds of other interesting exhibits in this "Show of the Engineers." The engineer corps of the United States army increased in size during the war at a rate out of proportion to the rapidity of the increases in the other branches of the service. The engineers were indispensable for success. They worked and they fought, and they did each with a high heart.
